Hey man, Saw that you used the word 'error' to describe the passport thing--anyway to tweak that? The agents were allowed to take the passports, as noted in Attachment B of the warrant (see below--the 'any other contents' line, in particular)

Property to be seized

6:51 AM

All physical documents and records constituting evidence, contraband, fruits of crime, or other items illegally possessed in violation of 18 U.S.C. §§ 793, 2071, or 1519, including the following:

a Any physical documents with classification markings, along with any containers/boxes (including any other contents) in which such documents are located, as well as any other containers/boxes that are collectively stored or found together with the aforementioned documents and containers/boxes;

Why return em then?

Hi Anthony - this is Perry Stein from the Washington Post. When you have a free moment, would you mind please giving me a call? Wanted to ask you something for a story on deadline. Thank you!

Perry Stein

Hi Anthony- wanted to follow up on our previous conversation and see if you had a comment. Happy to answer any further questions you may have on what we are reporting.

We are also reporting on Trumps filing this afternoon. In it he claims that he fully cooperated with the investigation and the search was "shockingly aggressive ." He also provided his timeline of the events leading up to the search, including that he invited jay bratt to mar a lago on June 2 to look at his storage facility.

6:25 PM

Do you have any comments on the filing, his accusations in it, or the timeline he presents?

Please let me know. Thank you,

Perry Stein

Sorry to bug you late, but wanted to know we have held the story I mentioned. If you're around, I'll touch base with you tomorrow on it. Apologies for any inconvenience

I'm so sorry I'm just calling about this line in the NYT -- any truth here? By late Monday, the Justice Department admitted the error and contacted Mr. Trump's legal team to retrieve the three passports — two of them expired and the third an active diplomatic passport, according to one of the former president's lawyers, Evan Corcoran, and a spokesman for the department.

9:55 PM

Sadie Gurman

Trump layers are apparently saying DOJ did reach out to return the passport
