

ABUSE IN LATER LIFE PROGRAM

U.S. Department of Justice

OVW

Office on Violence Against Women

Working Together to End the Violence

The Training and Services to End Abuse in Later Life Program (Abuse in Later Life Program) supports a comprehensive approach to addressing abuse in later life. The term “abuse in later life” means (1) neglect, abandonment, economic abuse, willful harm of an adult aged 50 or older by an individual in an ongoing relationship of trust with the victim; or (2) domestic violence, dating violence, sexual assault, or stalking of an adult aged 50 or older by any individual. See 34 U.S.C. § 12291(a)(1).

Funded activities must include:

Providing training programs to justice system professionals and service providers to recognize and address instances of abuse in later life

Establishing or supporting multidisciplinary collaborative community responses to victims of abuse in later life

Conducting cross-training for professionals to better serve older survivors

Providing or enhancing services for victims of abuse in later life

Eligible Applicants

Eligible applicants include states, units of local government, Indian tribal governments, tribal organizations, population-specific organizations, victim service providers, and state, tribal, or territorial domestic violence or sexual assault coalitions. To be eligible, applicants also must demonstrate that they are part of a multidisciplinary partnership.
